Fox say never have it above 200PSI, but their range for riders is not above 125PSI Since I have found more than the normal amount of oil (or what I was used to) is coming out of the left shock tower. I have managed to track down the service manual from Fox (great to see fox have this stuff out there) to see what I how to do it myself PROPERLY.

Dubjay, Thanks for the reply. Yes, I am sure that it is a rear shock. Fox made a TALAS rear shock for a few years, 2003 to 2004 or so. This rear shock is based on the FLOAT models, thus the air sleeve, and has a lever allowing the shock to have 3 travel positions.

Hi, I have this old 2006 Specialized Epic Comp in garage for a few years with Fox RL F100 fork and was going to tune it for the wife. The fork and shock was not serviced as of 2006 Appears to be working fine but its a bit overdue for service As I'm taking apart everything to clean and grease, I was going to do at least the lowers service.
