Expository Writing Lesson Plan: A comprehensive expository writing guide that describes the characteristics and key features of expository text. Before completing this lesson, students should have background information about what expository texts are, how they are organized, and how to write them. Students then engage in tasks that involve planning, drafting, and revising. The lesson plan includes a clear definition of expository writing and a logical explanation of how to introduce this concept to students.

Expository Writing Lesson Plan: Vored Writers
Expository Writing Lesson. In this lesson, students will read two texts about sea turtles, learning key features of expository text and active reading strategies along the way. Text Set 1: Lights Out for Sea Turtles: A problem and solution article about the threat of light pollution to sea turtles. Text Set 2: Keeping My Kiddo Busy: Using Science Texts to Teach the Organizational Features of Expository "How-To" Writing FREEBIE

Expository Text. Expository texts are non-fiction texts that present information about a topic. They are used to explain, describe, define, instruct, or inform. Students will learn about the different types of expository text and how to write them. The lesson plan includes a clear definition of expository writing and a logical explanation of how to introduce this concept to students.

How to Teach Expository Writing - Just Add Students
Expository writing aims to explain, describe, define, instruct and/or inform. Here are some resources that will inspire your writers, encourage them to think critically, and help them formulate their own ideas. Take a look at the...